SIGNERS OF THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

Caesar Rodney

Signer #35: Caesar Rodney (1728-1784)

Delaware. Age at signing: 47

Occupation: Landowner

Single. Had skin cancer from his youth. Died at 55.

Quotes & Notes:

The twelve colonies participating had voting unanimously for Freedom! Each man present fully realized what his vote meant in terms of personal danger, should this rebellion fail. King George III had declared every rebel in the land a traitor. The penalty for treason was death by hanging. Caesar Rodney, who had ridden from Dover all through a stormy night to turn the vote of Delaware to independence, selflessly relinquished any chance left to him of going to England for treatment of the ailment said to have eventually caused his death.

"Blest Be the Tie That Binds"

In 1765 John Fawcett was called to pastor a very small congregation at Wainsgate, England. He labored there diligently for 7 years, but his salary was so meager that he and his wife could scarcely obtain the necessities of life. Though the people were poor, they compensated for this lack by their faithfulness and warm fellowship.

Then Dr. Fawcett received a call from a much larger church in London, and after lengthy consideration decided to accept the invitation. As his few possessions were being placed in a wagon for moving, many of his parishioners came to say goodbye. Once again they pleaded with him to reconsider.

Touched by this great outpouring of love, he and his wife began to weep. Finally Mrs. Fawcett exclaimed, "O John, I just can't bear this. They need us so badly here." "God has spoken to my heart, too!" he said. "Tell them to unload the wagon! We cannot break these wonderful ties of fellowship."

This experience inspired Fawcett to write a hymn: "Blest be the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love! The fellowship of kindred minds, is like to that above."
