What is the Book of Hosea about?

God chose Israel to be His own nation, showering upon her love and blessings. When she still turned away from Him to other gods, He sent prophets to make her realize her sin. Hosea was one of these prophets. He acted out his message by his life. At God's command he married a wife who was unfaithful to him-she deliberately left him for all the pleasures and wealth she thought men could give her. Hosea was heart-broken and disowned her, but he still loved her and bought her back. He then shut her away until she would realize her sin and turn back to him again.

Hosea's troubles gave him a chance to speak God's message that Israel has treated her Lord in the same way. He has been like a loving husband to Israel, but because she turned away He will disown her. Nevertheless, He loves her still, and when her heart turns back to Him, He will receive her.

Patrick Henry shouted,

"Give me liberty or give me death." The next generation shouted,

"Give me liberty" The present generation shouts "Give me"

In the war between the States a brave ensign got in advance of the faltering lines. The flag was in danger of being captured. The captain shouted: "Bring the colors back to the company."

Just at that moment a soldier dashed forward shouting "Bring the company up to the colors!" Soon the flag was surrounded by 100 fearless hearts

Freedom is never a gift. It is the "pearl of a great price" in anguish won. - Author Unknown
